Jos. M. Freedman,
Lyceum Theatre Building
Memphis Tenn.

March 31 - Saturday.

Dear Joe:—

Yesterday brought no word from you and this morning I awaited the carrier and met with the same disappointment. Such a disappointment, that I never before experienced, and couldn't realize, for I had to look several times to make sure that I was forgotten. I am extremely worried — and hurt too. Worried because I am afraid something may have gone wrong — or that you are not feeling well... and so hurt because you did not write even if

Tell me how your cases are getting along, did your accident claim settled with the company? I was so sorry, Joe, that your uncle's case came up (tomorrow) when you had just about made up your mind to enjoy yourself. My happiness when I heard that you were going, was for nothing. Tell me how you have been spending your time — you know how I want you to pass it.

Last week while out in Brownsville, I saw the most wonderful display of furniture — much prettier than I have seen such was the case. Won't you write and tell me how you are? I hope your cold is entirely better now, and please, take care of yourself.

Katinka is a really charming play - a musical comedy, full of it - but every few minutes I would wonder, how you are, what you were doing and why you didn't write — that I hardly enjoyed it as I should. The girls were charming, the songs and music beautiful and the costumes wonderful. The plot, similar to all plays of its kind, wasn't thrilling. But it was very nice, indeed.

anywhere. I saw the framed oak that I wrote you about — and it is indeed very pretty. It seems that the furniture is so much prettier now than it has ever been — or do I only imagine it now — because I take an interest in it? anyway it is best not to buy anything until I see it.

I shall close with love, and the expectations that I receive a letter to-day. Hear if I am disappointed again! — I don't know what I shall do.

Lovingly
Frances.

Read my check to-day and feel like a multi-millionaire but alas! it is for only